Seafood Festival the Best in Years

The 25th Annual Pompano Beach Seafood Festival closed to rave reviews from visitors and smiles from vendors as the largest crowd in years enjoyed a picture perfect weekend at the beach. It is estimated that more than 30,000 people attended this year's event.

Organizers were very pleased to see so that so many people came out to enjoy the fun, "There are many variables that go into making an outdoor event a success and this year we were lucky enough to have everything come together without a hitch," said John Good, Festival Manager. "Of course the weather was perfect and that makes a big difference."

Thousands of people filled the beach on Saturday night to enjoy the classic sounds of Grand Funk Railroad. All weekend long, the food court was jammed with people enjoying every kind of seafood imaginable and the Boardwalk, with over 125 arts and crafts vendors, was packed.

The Broward Sheriff's Office reported no major incidents over the entire weekend.

The Pompano Beach Seafood Festival is a not for profit corporation that benefits a wide range of local charities, schools and civic organizations. While it is far too early to know how much has been raised this year, well over a million dollars has been raised in the festival's history and it is hoped that this year's contributions will exceed 2008.
